

Last biennial course and conference of the Commission on Legal Pluralism: 17-24 August 2018, Ottawa, Canada:

Citizenship, legal pluralism and governance in the age of globalization

The University of Ottawa has graciously hosted the Legal Pluralism conference and course in August of 2018. The conference took place from 22 to 24 August 2018, as usual preceded by our course from 17 to 20 August.

The theme of the conference was 'Citizenship, Legal Pluralism and Governance in the Age of Globalization'. Please find here an overview of all accepted panels, as well as the Call for Papers. During the conference a prize was awarded for the best paper by a young scholar. Please have a look at <http://commission-on-legal-pluralism.com/nl/young-scholar-award> for the criteria.

Prior to the conference, we organised an international course, covering theories, knowledge and methodologies of legal pluralism. If you are interested in learning more about the course, please have a look here!

If you have any questions, feel free to contact us at j.m.ubink@law.leidenuniv.nl.

Course participants in Ottawa 2018 (Photo by M. Weilenmann)